IS THERE SOMETHING GOING ON AT HOME?

Documentary Gives Voice to the Family of Police Officers

March 2024—Lightning Digital Entertainment is proud to present "IS THERE SOMETHING GOING ON AT HOME?", a documentary feature film from Director Jason Harney & Producer Deborah Louise Ortiz. Is There Something Going On At Home is the winner of four 2023 Top Indie Film Awards including Best Documentary Short, Best Film Editing and Best Message—and is available for streaming on Amazon Prime.

When a Police Officer suffers from trauma, their family will suffer right along with them. Is There Something Going On At Home gives a voice to the spouses, partners, and children of the police family.

The story follows Deborah Louise Ortiz, her husband, Michael, and daughter, Angela, as they tell their story of a retired New York State Trooper & DEA Task Force Agent struggling with Addiction and PTSD—leading to devastating consequences.

Rachel Medlin & Scott Medlin share their experiences as a young couple enduring the fallout of a demanding police career on a young family—and the impact on the spouse left to parent their children alone.

Dr. Olivia Johnson weighs in on both stories, explaining the importance of inoculation as it relates to the Mental Health & Relationship issues Police Officers will face during their careers.

And retired Police Officer, Speaker, and Author Glen Williams relates his work in the field of relationships & the police family to the stories in the film, fostering a message to Bridge the Gap in communication between a police officer and spouse.

About Glen Williams

Trauma as a way of life takes a toll. Like many, Glen did not talk about these things. To cope, he indulged in self-destructive behavior—and eventually developed P.T.S.D. When Glen faced his trauma, he learned to restructure it—and made it safe to talk about. So safe that he wrote a book and designed a curriculum to help other public safety workers and trauma survivors do the same.

He now travels the country speaking about his journey. It is his mission to assist police departments and public agencies, in supporting their officers and staff to reduce the effects of PTSD—and prevent divorce and suicide.

About Bridging the Gap

Bridging the Gap focuses on reframing self and community perceptions through the practice of accountability. The course reveals the base ways we perceive and operate in direct opposition to good communication and relationships. Providing tools and processes to step out of destructive cycles through open and vulnerable sharing. A natural result of these changes is improved relationships.
